

Introduction

This bulletin is to provide Motor Body Examiners information in relation to a New Structural Report Form and to advise that the Manual will not be distributed on disk anymore.

Background;

The AIS Compliance unit consulted with AMBRIS's in relation to the current Structural Report form for any suggested changes.

What's changed;

A new version of the Structural Report form has been developed. This is V2.1. A full list of the amendments to the manual has been provided as a summary of changes which is available at the below link. You are reminded to make yourself familiar with the amendments in the manual and forms and complete the declaration attached to this SIB. The Manual has been updated to reflect all changes and has samples of the new Structural Report form.

The AMBRIS manual is now accessible online. Version 3 of the Manual can be accessed online at: https://www.transport.tas.gov.au/vehicles/vehicle_inspections/ambris I suggest that you save this in your favourites or place a short cut to it on your desktop to make it quick and easy to access the current online information

When will this change take effect?

Immediately
