

Introduction

A Short Term Unregistered Vehicle Permit (UVP), enables an eligible vehicle (being a safe and roadworthy unregistered Australian road vehicle) to be used on a public street for a specified purpose within a 28 day period. A UVP may be issued where it is impractical or unreasonable for the vehicle to obtain appropriate registration. A UVP does not cover the vehicle for regular use on a public street and is not a substitute for appropriate registration. The reasons a UVP may be issued:

Relocation - Moving an unregistered vehicle from one location to another

Repairs - Moving an unregistered vehicle to a place of repair

Event - Using the vehicle to travel to and within an event

Eligible Vehicle

It is the applicants and operators' responsibility to ensure a vehicle being used on a public street is in safe operating condition. A UVP is not valid if the vehicle:

- is not roadworthy or is not compliant with relevant vehicle standards
- is a repairable write off, statutory write off or declared as wrecked
- has been modified without modification certification
- is currently registered, including conditional registration such as Special Interest, Vintage or Restricted Use
- registration is suspended
- has a defect notice issued
- is recorded as stolen

Towing or carrying a load

- A motor vehicle or trailer cannot:
 - carry a load (with the exception of a trailer designed to carry a specific load e.g., boat trailer can carry a boat, horse trailer can carry a horse, car trailer can carry a car for relocation)
- A motor vehicle can:
 - tow a registered trailer which is or isn't carrying a load, if the permit is issued for the purpose of relocation

Conditions of Use

- Not to be used for commercial purposes, such as hire and reward.
- Must comply with the information specified on page 1 of the Short Term Unregistered Vehicle Permit Application.
- The UVP is affixed to an appropriate location on the inside left portion of the windscreen and be legible from outside the vehicle at all times, or in any other case the permit is carried on the vehicle, including if the vehicle is towing a vehicle which the UVP is issued to.

Journey details

A UVP will only be issued for the minimum number of days needed to undertake the journey within a 28-day period. A start address and destination address is to be specified. It is the responsibility of the operator of the vehicle operating on an UVP to ensure the most direct route is taken and that the vehicle can only be used on public streets in the time allowable on the UVP.

Moving a vehicle interstate

A UVP issued in Tasmania may be recognised by other jurisdictions. Please contact the relevant jurisdiction to ensure that a Tasmanian issued UVP is valid in the jurisdiction you will be travelling. A UVP must be obtained from the jurisdiction where the travel with the vehicle is to begin.

Amending or cancelling a UVP

If you need to change the details of your UVP or cancel it, please visit Service Tasmania with the UVP.

This can be done any time on or before the UVP start date. After this no amendments can be made, and cancellation will not be refunded.

My vehicle does not meet the conditions

A UVP cannot be issued if the vehicle does not meet the conditions outlined in the application. You may consider other registration options or transporting the vehicle by truck or trailer.

How to apply and fees

Complete the Short Term Unregistered Vehicle Permit Application Form and submit at Service Tasmania. Or, if you are outside Tasmania, you can submit your application by email to tes@stategrowth.tas.gov.au with a scanned copy of your driver licence and completed Credit Card Payment Form for payment of the required fee. Fees for a UVP can be found on the Transport Website.
