

What is an Ancillary Certificate in Driving Instruction?

An Ancillary Certificate allows you to be paid to teach a person to drive. If you don't hold a certificate you can't be paid for your services.

Eligibility to be issued with an Ancillary Certificate in Driving Instruction ...

You must:

- be at least 21 years of age
- hold a current Australian driver licence for the class of vehicle in which you want to instruct
- for car driving instructors, have successfully completed a Certificate IV in Transport and Logistics (Road Transport – Car Driving Instruction). Contact the Australian Driver Trainers Association via email drivertrainerstas@gmail.com for more information for more information on courses.
- have held an Australian driver licence (other than a learner or provisional) for at least 3 years, and held it for at least one year immediately prior to the date of application.
- meet the “Fit and Proper Guidelines”, and:
 - have not been convicted for a criminal or other offence
 - have not been disqualified from driving for a traffic or drug/alcohol related offence within the last 5 years
 - have not previously had a certificate refused or cancelled
- be medically fit at the commercial standards.

If you don't meet the criteria, you'll need to supply a letter stating the reasons why you should be granted an Ancillary Certificate. This letter should also be accompanied by supporting documentation, such as character references.

How to apply for your ancillary certificate ...

- complete this application form (MR111)
- obtain a National Criminal History Check from Tasmania Police. It must be dated no more than 6 months prior to the date you lodge your complete application, and must be the original document
- obtain Working with Children Registration (Employment Category)
- undertake a medical at the commercial standard with your regular treating general practitioner
 - you take the Medical Fitness to Drive Assessment (MR68) with you to your doctor's appointment
- car driving instructors must also successfully complete a Certificate IV in Transport and Logistics (Road Transport – Car Driving Instruction) and provide evidence of this
- complete the checklist below:
 - meet the minimum period for holding an Australian Driver Licence, see point 2
 - meet the minimum age requirements, see point 2
 - obtained your National Criminal History Check from Tasmania Police and attached it to this application
 - obtain Working with Children Registration. See -www.justice.tas.gov.au/working_with_children
 - provide the Registrar of Motor Vehicles with a letter of explanation as to why you should be issued with an Ancillary Certificate if you have had any types of offences outlined in point 2 of the guidelines or there are other issues. The letter must be attached to this application.
 - provide a passport size photograph for your identification card
 - provide a specimen signature for your identification card
 - for car driving instructors – proof of completion of required Certificate IV
 - for motorcycle driving instructors - Certificate of Competency for the motorcycle course
 - for heavy vehicle driving instructors - prepared for the driver knowledge test and have your Certificate of Competency for the driving test

Take all the items in the checklist to any Service Tasmania shop along with the required Ancillary Certificate fee so your application can be processed. Heavy Vehicle applicants will need to pass the driver knowledge test at this time.

What if my application is refused?

You will be advised in writing if the Registrar of Motor Vehicles refuses your application. This letter will also give details of your appeal rights. You may re-apply for an Ancillary Certificate at any time. Your application will be assessed against the same criteria as previously applied.

What happens after I get my Ancillary Certificate?

- before you begin instruction you must ensure that the vehicle in which you plan to instruct has been inspected at an AIS for roadworthiness. Driving instructor cars must have a roadworthiness inspection at an AIS every 12 months
- you must also ensure that your vehicle has dual controls and that these have been inspected by the transport inspector to verify that they are properly fitted
- regular checks will be made of your conviction and driving record. If you commit a serious offence, including any alcohol or drug-related offence or common assault, or commit traffic offences your Ancillary Certificate may be suspended or cancelled
- your working with Children Registration must remain current and be renewed every 3 years
- at any time the Registrar may take into consideration evidence of physical and/or mental health, character and conduct in assessing your suitability to retain an Ancillary Certificate
- you must have a medical examination –
 - every three years until you turn 65 years of age
 - every year from the age of 65, or
 - at any time, as required by the Registrar of Motor Vehicles
- heavy vehicle driving instructors must pass a knowledge test every three years when they renew their Ancillary Certificate.

How long is an Ancillary Certificate in Driving Instruction valid?

It is issued for three years. You will be sent a renewal notice before your Ancillary Certificate expires.

Cancellation and Suspension

If you are disqualified from driving, your Ancillary Certificate will be automatically cancelled or suspended. The Registrar also has the power to suspend or cancel an Ancillary Certificate if they have reason to believe that in any respect, the holder is not a suitable person. This may include, but is not limited to, evidence of physical and/or mental health, character and evidence of offences that might indicate that the person is not fit-and-proper.

How can I check if my Taxi Ancillary Certificate is still valid?

You can check your taxi ancillary certificate expiry date on our website. You will need to enter your driver licence number and surname of the licence holder. These details entered must exactly match the details found on the driver licence or the ancillary certificate information will not be released. A successful search will provide the ancillary certificate type, ancillary certificate expiry date and driver licence expiry date of the licence searched.
